■ Introduce your organization and products to world-leading RNA scientists and researchers

The RNA Society is an international scientific society with over 2500 members dedicated to fostering research and education in the field of RNA science. The Annual Meeting of the RNA Society attracts participants from across the globe to present their latest discoveries and advances in the burgeoning field of RNA science.

31 years at the forefront of RNA research and collaboration – come celebrate with us in Montréal, Canada!

■ Access to the latest advances in RNA research

Foster existing customer contacts and cultivate new relationships in an exciting & informative atmosphere. The five-day program will provide unparalleled exposure to the over 1100+ RNA 2026 meeting participants. Exclusive social events will offer unique opportunities to network between attendees and exhibitors. Sponsors at the Bronze-level and above may also host sponsored seminars, allowing them to introduce products, showcase services, and demonstrate how collaboration between research and industry drives innovation in the RNA field.
